A MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT Tuesday morning in front of 548 S.E. Sixth St. left one Belle Glade youngster in the hospital and another treated and released with minor injuries. Chester Anderson, 12, of 1083 Wedgworth Rd., was treated at Glades

General Hospital and transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach while Allen Whatley, 12, of 225 N.W. Ave. F was treated and released for asphalt rash and abrasions.

PBJC plans auditorium

BELLE GLADE—The city commission agreed to accept a donation and work with Palm Beach Junior College to build an auditorium on the new campus to be used both by the college and by the community. Dr. Tony Tate appeared before the commission in a workshop session and said the auditorium was scheduled to be the last building constructed at the new Glades campus site but there is one possible method he's found which can make it a reality much earlier. Dr. Tate said that if the city accepts a donation made earlier to PBJC by the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc. in the amount of $78,000 to be used for building purposes at the Glades campus only, it could be used as matching funds for applying for a grant from the state to build the auditorium.

"We're not asking for funds from the city at this time," Tate said. "But we need an indication of support from the community. That will give us a better chance of getting the funds from the state." Tate commented that only governmental agencies could provide the matching funds. That's why, if other plans go through, he wants the city to accept the Cooperative's donation. He said the donation, through interest, has grown to more than $90,000 already and by the time the matching funds are needed, it will amount to almost $100,000.

Tate said the college is planning a 12,000 square foot auditorium and said that at this time, it would stand a good chance of drawing the funds since only two other junior colleges in the state have made similar applications.

"But there are bound to be more applications as the word gets around," he said.

Some of the activities Tate pointed out could take place in the auditorium to the community's benefit included community forums and meetings, theatrical productions by community groups, governmental agency meetings which would require a larger seating capacity than is now available, beauty pageant and contests and performances of all kinds.

Rockets' red glare fizzles before the city

BELLE GLADE—Plans for Belle Glade's own fireworks display on July Fourth fizzled when the idea was taken before the city commission during a workshop Monday.

City Recreation Director Johnny Rutledge said he had been assured by Community Development Director George Gartner that more than $1,000 could be provided for the fireworks display as long as it was held in the target area.

He said the money could be used to set up the display, 192 aerial pieces which would have been set off over a half-hour period Sunday, July 8 so as not to interfere with the annual Pahokee celebration in Lake Shore Park.

Mayor Ralph Kirk, however, said he wasn't in favor of Belle Glade holding its own fireworks display, that Pahokee had been doing so for years and he felt Belle Glade should support the Pahokee effort.

Kirk said Belle Glade already contributes to the Pahokee display by way of a contribution by the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce. "This is about the only time in the year the wife and I have a chance to leave town," Kirk said, "and I'd hate not to go."

Commissioner Kenneth Harris said he "would sort of like to see Belle Glade hold its own celebration and I don't think it's going to be too long before the people of Pahokee start coming down here to watch our celebration."

Harris went on to suggest the city spend $500 and ask the local chamber of commerce to use the money it intends to donate to the Pahokee fireworks show to have a display in Belle Glade, possible at the Belle Glade Airport.

"I feel the same way Ken does," Commissioner Aubrey Farmer said, but the two commissioners were persuaded by Kirk to hold off any action on the local fireworks display until the matter could be brought up again in the budget sessions.

Shorty P stretches his horizons with a little help from his friends

BELLE GLADE—With a little help from his friends, Shorty P sat in the sun for a couple of hours Sunday. He even got a haircut.

And if that doesn't sound like an exciting way to spend a weekend, it was the first time in a year he's been able to go outside and sit up.

Which figures only slightly less in importance than the fact that Shorty P, also known as Vearl Perkins, can also straighten his legs out for the first time in 12 years.

That was when the infantile paralysis he came down with in 1932 as a 19 year old caught up with him and forced him into a sick bed he's still confined to.

"A lot of people call it polio," he said, "but I called it infantile paralysis." Perkins said the polio came as result of a friend falling on him in an accident and his legs having trouble with his legs after that.

"The doctor told me back then (in 1932) that I'd never walk again," he said, "but I managed to get around on crutches until things got too bad about 12 years ago."

Until 1965, Perkins said he worked as commercial fishermen and it was during that last year he stepped backward onto a catfish, driving the fin through his boot and into his heel. That thorn is still there.

Since then, Perkins said his legs began to gradually draw up under him until doctors decided to perform a multiple operation last month, cutting the tendons in the backs of his legs while also taking care of some other medical work.

"I can straighten my legs out now for the first time in 12 years," Perkins said. "And I can even wiggle the toes on my right foot."

But Perkins really began to stretch his horizons last August when he became the owner of a citizens band radio and a new name, taking the handle of Shorty P.

That's when he became acquainted with an entirely new circle of friends, such as Georgia Girl and Trailerman, laying in bed to copy the mail each day.

"I mostly work channel 20," Shorty P said this week. "But I'll get on the other channels too."

Trailways slow-up plan is protested

BELLE GLADE—A number of requests have been filed by Glades area residents with the Florida Public Service Commission about the proposed cancellation of two runs by Trailways Continental bus system.

The Lake Okechobee Traffic Advisory Council fired off a telegram Tuesday evening to the PSC in response to information of a similar letter written by the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce protesting the cancellation of service.

Trailways has proposed ending service supplied by an eastbound bus which arrives in Belle Glade at 10:15 a.m. from West Palm Beach and Miami and goes on to Fort Myers.

Also scheduled for cancellation is a 9 a.m. southbound run which goes directly to Miami. The service is scheduled to be stopped next Wednesday.

William Banks, who runs the Belle Glade station with his wife, said this would leave four runs through Belle Glade on a daily basis. There are two southbound runs at 1:25 and 1:20 p.m. and two northbound buses at 2:15 and 8:40 p.m.

Banks said he knows of several people in Belle Glade who have protested the cancellation of service to the PSC and Chamber of Commerce Executive Secretary Jewel Crane said she was told a letter from the commission she received Wednesday that the commission will take into consideration the chamber stand and that, "everything will be done to insure adequate passenger and transit service to the Belle Glade area."

Banks said the biggest protest he has received have been from Belle Glade florists who depend on shipments from West Palm Beach on the 10:15 a.m. bus.

"The West Palm florists close at 2 p.m.," he said, "so that means that if flowers are shipped, they've got to remain in the West Palm Bus station until the evening bus leaves, then stay around here all night until the local florist can get them the next morning."

He said he has been informed the reason Trailways wants to shut down the service is a lack of customers and profits. He pointed out, however, that he usually unloads one of the three baggage bays of every bus coming through.

"It will undoubtedly hurt people relying on the bus to bring in shipments," Banks said. He said he has been trying to get a West Palm Beach to Fort Myers turn-around service but said he's never received any answer to the proposal.

Pat Drake, chairman of the Lake Okechobee Area Traffic Council, which met Tuesday night, said the thing that bothers him the most is that this is indicative of the gradual erosion of service to the area by freight and passenger companies.

Banks said there was supposed to have been a public hearing by the PSC Wednesday.

The LOATC telegram protested the cancellation of the two runs without a public hearing in the Lake Okechobee area, pointing out that people from Belle Glade to LaBelle would be adversely affected.

Money is available for Will Museum

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade Bicentennial Committee took steps Tuesday to facilitate the use of more than $15,000 it still has on hand to begin setting up more projects in the Lawrence Will Museum.

There have been three communities involved in the museum and Mrs. Dolly Hand, who happens to be chairman of both the Bicentennial Committee and the Belle Glade Library Board, said the coordination of efforts between those two bodies and the Glades Historical Society has proven frustrating.

"It's unbelievably cumbersome trying to get anything done," Mrs. Hand said. "The Library Board has been charged with the responsibility for the museum and the Historical Society is interested in the museum too."

"The Bicentennial Committee has more than $15,000 left over from fund-raising last year but the only way we can spend it is to call a meeting of the whole committee."

Mary Orsenigo moved the committee should form a sub-committee made up of Don Fiehs, Ruth Wedgworth and Nataleah Nachman, any two of which could decide to dispense Bicentennial funds.

The motion passed unanimously and Fiehs, commenting that a list of projects have already been drawn up by the Museum Advisory Committee of the Glades Historical Society, said he felt the funds have been raised to build and develop the museum and should be used for that.

Committee Member Robert Allen said he felt the Bicentennial Committee has served its purpose and should turn the funds over to either the library board or the historical society.

Mrs. Hand said, however, she had been advised by Belle Glade City Attorney John Baker the committee, which is also a non-profit corporation, should remain an entity at least through the rest of the fiscal year to accept any more donations which may be offered to the museum.

It was also agreed a meeting should be set up with the library board and the museum advisory committee to discuss priorities for projects and expenditures for the museum, using Bicentennial funds.

In another action, the committee voted to recommend approval to the library board a request made by Mrs. Arthur Jones to reproduce a number of photographs now on display in the museum. The photos would be enlarged and hung at the Holiday Inn.

GLADYS GANZY

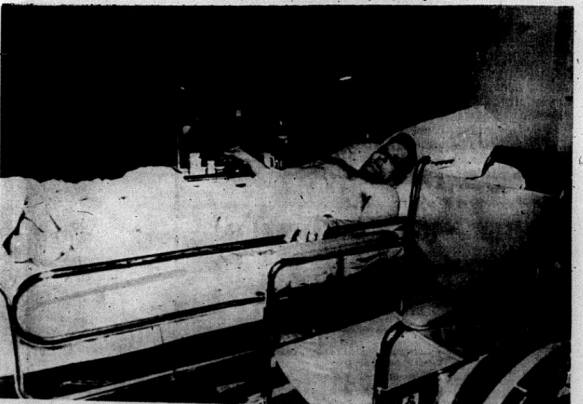

BELLE GLADE—Gladys Ganzy was named acting Community Development Director for the City of Belle Glade Monday after the commission accepted the resignation of current Director George Gartner.

Ms. Ganzy has been employed with the Community Development Department since December 1975 as a rehabilitation advisor.

She said she came to work for the department after working with the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services as a social worker.

She came to Belle Glade from Tallahassee and received both a bachelor's degree and a master's degree in sociology from Florida Atlantic University. Ms. Ganzy is originally from Lamont.

The motion passed unanimously

SHORTY P tries out his new hospital bed and shows off his wheelchair while keeping an ear open for his citizens band radio.

I'll be celebrating my second-ever Father's Day this Sunday so bear with me as a relatively new Father expresses some thoughts about this event.

Since the last Father's Day, when son Burke was only old enough to lie in bed and squall for his bottle, some remarkable changes have taken place.

He has begun to walk and to get into more things than anyone has ever thought possible. Nothing is sacred. Just the other day, with the speed of light, he grabbed my morning's draught of orange juice and poured it all over himself, the carpet, and me.

For this transgression, he was rewarded with a swift swat to the seat of learning. But learning is a slow process and he will more than likely require more swats before becoming aware that a stern "no" means just that.

I've found that little boys and young dogs both have a lot in common. In training dogs, I've noticed their attention span is somewhat limited and repetition is the essence of learning.

Little boys are the same. A favorite toy falls into disfavor within minutes as new opportunities for mischief present themselves.

My son has discovered the wonder of water. His father has a signal love of the briny deep as well as pools and rivers and some of this has rubbed off.

The dog's water dish, a large plastic tub, has become a favorite of his and, if placed near the tub, you'd better grab quick or he will soon be seated within, clothed or unclothed.

We once placed him in a large child's wading pool and it was the highlight of his life. Since then, we must keep a firm grip on his hand when venturing near a fountain or seashore.

Burke has begun to venture away from home and parents and discover the wonders of green grass and living things. He's no longer content to play on carpets, often going to the door and nudging his desires known in no uncertain terms.

And like his father, he likes to grab up a sprig of grass and chew on it. Contented.

No doubt, on Sunday morning there will be a wrapped gift with "Daddy" on it written in wife's descriptive script. And the card will say, "To Daddy with love, Burke" in the same handwriting. I won't be fooled. He can't write—yet.

But there is another gift he gives that means more than all the trinkets in the world. When I come home in the evenings, he runs to me, arms outstretched, bellowing "Da, Da."

It's enough to make one feel all warm and runny inside.

Father's Day. We often think about our children and what we must do for them. Then in other moments, we think about what they do for us.

We get much more than we give.

The Father's Days to come will be a never-ending wonder to me as my boy grows older. I hope we will grow together as my father and I have. We can both learn a lot from each other.

And Fathers are kind of like young dogs. You have to swat them in the seat of learning occasionally to get them to wake up to knowledge. And keep repeating it.

Opinion

'WHERE ELSE BUT AMERICA CAN A LOWLY PICKPOCKET, HOBNOB WITH TWO PRESIDENTIAL AIDES AND AN ATTORNEY GENERAL...?'

Make 'em readable

When an announcement designed to inform the public of an action taken by a governmental agency fails to perform that function, maybe it's time to take another look at the announcement.

Such as at legal notices describing an action involving a parcel of property which is then described in such a manner it would take a search of the county land records to find out what land is being discussed.

A case in point is the recent announcement by the City of Belle Glade that the commission was considering the deannexation of Osceola Center...only no one outside those in the know had the slightest inkling Osceola Center was being discussed.

It's called a legal notice of course because it's required by law. The framers of the law must have had the object in mind of informing the public of the annexation, deannexation, zoning change or whatever kind of action was being contemplated.

After all, when the status of property is being changed, it quite often affects more people than the property owner.

So it's important enough the law requires an exact description of that property so there'll be no mistake about where it is. And therein lies the problem.

That description is so technical only a handful of people can understand it. Which is why we, and at least a couple of city commissioners have wondered in the past why another description, such as a street address or, "the property commonly referred to as Osceola Center" or "Joe's Junk Yard" or "Pete's Cabbage Patch" couldn't be used along with the legal description.

A check with other journalists in the area indicates a popular description is also used in some areas along with the legal description and we see no reason the practice couldn't be started in Belle Glade.

After all, the object is to inform the public, isn't it?

Think you got problems?

chuck, bacon, potatoes, milk, eggs and bread came to a per kilogram price of $13.48 compared to $47.06 in Tokyo.
European capitals, all of which were higher than the U.S. on the list, included Stockholm, Copenhagen, Bonn, the Hague, Paris, Brussels, Rome and London.

Ranked below the Americans for their food prices were Canberra, Ottawa, Brasilia, Mexico City and Buenos Aires.
The average price for the market basket was $18.34. Almost $5 more than the United States market basket.

It probably won't ease the pain of the American housewife when she goes shopping to compare the prices paid for food around the world and to realize the average American family spends only 17 cents of every dollar earned after taxes on food.

But it could make her more appreciative of the American farmers who provide that chow.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Tradition has been called the mortar that holds society together, and if there's any question about who called it that, I just did.

On t'other hand, seems to me I remember someone around here who fondly remembered his service days by extolling the U.S.
Navy's 200 years of tradition, unimpeded by a single second of progress.

And sometimes, what's called tradition is nothing more than habit, like over eating, smoking or butting your head against the wall.
It all feels so good when you stop.

And that's the category I think the traditional rivalry between Belle Glade and Pahokee oughta be assigned to.

About three times over the past few days, I've gotten into discussions, which as often as not turned into cussings, usually aimed my way, with people who say we'll never get the two towns together, and they seemed to like it fine that way.

Well, I'm all for competition but I don't see why we can't be a bit more choosy who we compete with or who we cooperate with.

Take the matter of hospitals, for instance, or schools, for that matter.

The way I understand it, there was some talk a few years back about building a new hospital to serve South Bay, Belle Glade and Pahokee, and it was to be built somewhere around Hooker Highway.

Along comes some people and I understand the Herald was one of em, who said there ain't no way.
And apparently there wasn't.
Since then, I've hearthra lot of people commenting about the fact we could have one really fine hospital instead of the two we now have, and I ain't knocking either one.

But face it, wouldn't it have been a whole lot easier to have worked together on the ambulance problem both hospitals faced over the past couple of years?

And wouldn't it make a whole lot more sense to have one hospital than to have two hospitals, with the boundary drawn right along Northwest Avenue 12? There ain't no way in the world it makes sense for someone living in Osceola Center, within the city of Belle Glade, to be taken to Everglades Memorial emergency room for treatment.

But that's done now, it's over and done with; lines are drawn and it'll likely be a long time before they're redrawn or dissolved.

But that ain't the case when it comes to the concept of building a single consolidated high school for the whole west area.

Here again, there ain't no way anyone can convince me it makes sense or cents, to maintain two high schools for the whole west area when the students would have so much to gain from a single large school.

And where could that school be built? Try right at Hooker Highway, where there are already hard plans to build a vocational technical school, which has enough campus area to build the school
I've been talking about.

And that wasn't accidental. If Dr. Joe Carroll never did anything else for the Glades, and he's done plenty, he's left us the chance to put up one large school.

Okay, it was sneaky, but if it takes sneakiness to offer the kids of this area the chance to take advanced courses in math, or a couple more language courses, or physics or whatever courses they might could justify for a larger school, then I'm for sneakiness.

The only argument against the idea I've heard anything about is the traditional for small rivalry and it just doesn't hold water. I've never heard anyone talking seriously about South Bay spitting out and forming its own high school.

But as long as we have people who want to keep Belle Glade and Pahokee competing instead of cooperating, when the Osceola competition lies in the coast, we can be as proud as the Navy of our 40 years of tradition unimpeded by a single second of progress.

Hot dog!

And speaking of food, July and August oughta be fun for those people who believe in observing national proclamations.

July, according to our promotional calendar, is National Hot Dog Month, while August is National Salad Month and National Sandwich Month.

Which may be one of the reasons the first week of August is National Smile Week.

Women's softball results are given

By Karen Hansford

With the ending of school comes the beginning of softball and the Glades Women's Slow-Pitch Softball League is off to an explosive start with defending champion Wallis Pharmacy taking both of its first two games.

The first game of the season, played Tuesday night, June 7, saw the newly formed team of South Bay Growers collecting seven clean base hits in a nine to five rout of Glades Sugar.

After allowing only one run by Rhonda Gamble for visitors Glades Sugar in the first inning, the home team struck for three and one more in the second for a four to one lead.

They only lost the lead once when Glades Sugar edged ahead by a run in the top of the third inning, with Gail Hartwick hitting a double.

Loretta Pugh, Mary Lou Stephens and Linda Moss crossed the plate in the bottom of the inning to give the advantage back to South Bay. Sherri Herring then knocked a triple into centerfield and Loretta Pugh a two-base hit, with both scoring to make it none to five. Both teams went scoreless in the rest of the innings for South Bay Growers' first victory.

The second game of the evening was one of doubles as Wallis Pharmacy and Local 2152, another new team, combined for eight two-base hits.

Local 2152 took an early lead after two innings, with Barbara Morgan, Wanda McMillan and Sara Rives snapping out doubles, knocking in four runs. Frances McLeod hit a two-bagger for Wallis, causing the team's two runs.

Cheryl Waters was credited with two runs batted in in the top of the third inning on a double into centerfield to tie the score but Donna Jean Garcia of Local 2152 came back with yet another double and rounded the bases on Barbara Hartzo's hit to go ahead by one. The fourth inning was scoreless, then both teams went for four in the next with Local 2152 still ahead.

The Wallis batters then turned the game around in the top of the sixth by adding three runs and holding their opponents to one run by Barbara Morgan for an 11-10 score. They pushed one more across in the last inning and held the losing team to three consecutive outs to win, 12-10.

In Thursday's games in Canal Point, the rookie team sponsored by Miami Herald got off to a brilliant start by scoring eight runs in the first inning in a 15-6 conquest over Dixie Fried Chicken. The hard-hitting girls whacked out seven base hits in the inning, one a double to the left field fence by Pam Mefford. Holding the other team scoreless, the girls added another run in the next inning to make it nine to nothing.

Dixie Fried Chicken got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the third with two runs as Debbie Lord and Awilda Rosario scored. Julie Beck and Rachel Mills rounded the bases for Miami Herald in the next inning and Awilda Rosario added another one for Dixie Fried in the fifth for an 11-3 ballgame. The Miami Herald team then made another four in the last two innings to Dixie Fried Chicken's three for a 15-6 triumph.

Wallis Pharmacy defeated South Bay Growers 9-1 in a defensive battle in the second game that night.

Rhonda Cox, Karen Hansford

and Cheryl Waters crossed the plate for Wallis in the first inning for the game's only score in the first four innings, with both teams playing "heads up" ball.

Susan Moss of South Bay Growers made an unassisted double play in the fourth inning when she snagged a hard line drive and ran for first to get two outs on the Wallis batters.

South Bay Growers then loaded the bases in the top of the fifth inning with no outs, but could only capitalize for one run by Judy Abner as rightfielder Ronnie Pike pulled in a fly for an out, pitcher Cheryl Waters struck another batter out and Sherri Herring was forced out at homeplate.

The Wallis team took advantage of a couple of errors and added six runs in the bottom of the inning, one a double by Cheryl Waters. Neither team could score the rest of the game, giving Wallis Pharmacy its second win.

The league games will be played Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the Belle Glade Little League ballpark with the first game beginning at 7 p.m. The games last week were played in Canal Point because of the Little League season still going on.

Teams in the women's league this year: Dixie Fried Chicken, Glades Sugar, Local 2152, Miami Herald, South Bay Growers and Wallis Pharmacy.

FOLLOW THE LEADER

REMEMBER when as children you played the game "Follow the Leader" and the only danger was that you just might fall off the fence and hurt yourself. It was the risk and danger that made you want to prove to all that you were just as brave and strong as the leader. Most of the games were just fun and nobody got hurt.

BUT—then came the day when the leader turned out to be the bully of the neighborhood, who led you farther away from home and over greater obstacles to a higher and more unstable fence. You grew faint from fear, fell and got hurt; then you were carried home to a mother's loving care.

NOW, years later, are you still playing the game without really knowing the facts about the leader? Remember this game is not being played in the back yard. This one is in the plant or office where you work, your church, clubs, city, county and state. Oh, yes, even far away on the banks of the Potomac River.

THINK! Study and examine the motives of all who try to set themselves as your leaders. If you are not careful, these leaders could turn out to be the bullies of your childhood days.

To be a good American you must be positive in your judgment.

Chamber declines festival invite will sponsor own celebration

BELLE GLADE—The Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce decided against taking part in the Royal Palm Festival being planned for August 18-28 but delegated director Michael Wilson to coordinate a festival for the Glades, tentatively to be set sometime next spring. The directors decided against the August celebration because they felt they couldn't give the flavor of the Glades to visitors during the summer.

The directors agreed November would be the earliest possible time for tourists to get the feel of the Glades and that was wrong because there are already too many activities planned for the fall.

The Rev. O.W. West, representing the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce, said the primary thing he was interested in was whether the Belle Glade Chamber was interested in combining efforts with Pahokee and South Bay and all the directors agreed they were. Chamber President Cecil Conley said he would like to think of the festival as an annual event and the Director Earl Meredith said Belle Glade, "has missed the boat for a long time by not holding something like this around the Harvest Queen Festival."

Conley asked Director Michael Wilson to coordinate the Belle Glade Chamber with Pahokee and South Bay.

The board of directors also began picking up names to be nominated for the board of directors as of this year. A total of ten names were left on the list of nominees by the time the directors finished the discussion but the nominations weren't closed.

Dr. Conley said six names were proposed of people who weren't qualified because they aren't members of the chamber, and three people who were suggested by letters.

The directors will close the nominations in the July meeting and the election will be held in August.

Mental Health to meet

BELLE GLADE—The regular meeting of the Glades Steering Committee of the Community Mental Health Center will be held at 12:15 p.m. today at the St. Peter's Lutheran School building at 601 West Canal St. in Belle Glade.

Glades Center Director Jean Cogswill said lunch will be served and anyone needing transportation should call her at 996-2079.

Thirteen companies to receive awards

BELLE GLADE—Thirteen Glades area companies will be honored at 7 p.m. June 28 at the Elk's Lodge in Belle Glade during the Western Palm Beach County Farm Bureau's First Annual Safety Award's Dinner.

Fred Scheible, safety representative in the Farm Bureau's Belle Glade office, said the award is meant to honor the executive accounts in the Glades area which have attained an outstanding safety record.

"These are the companies that have significantly lowered losses in workmen's compensation payments and automobile insurance payments," Scheible said. "In the past, we'd take the top accounts out to dinner and give them a certificate of appreciation but we thought a formal dinner would be more appropriate."

Belle Glade Commission agrees to allow Chamber re-location

BELLE GLADE—The City Commission decided Monday night to approve a request by the Chamber of Commerce to allow the proposed chamber building to be placed on the corner of South Main Street and Southwest Avenue E and allow an entrance on Avenue E.

The decision reversed an earlier commission action in which the commission was told they couldn't have an entrance on Avenue E and a suggestion that the building be relocated on the corner of Southwest Avenue F instead of the original location.

The decision Monday was also made in the absence of the two commissioners, William Grear and Tom Altman, who had most violently objected to having an entrance off Southwest Avenue E because of an expected increase in traffic there.

And the commissioners on hand for the Monday meeting went a step further by also allowing an exit for any traffic eastbound on E. Any traffic entering from E must also be eastbound.

In other action, the commission, approved a resolution closing the city jail on June 23. Sheriff Richard Willie has already said he'd like to take over the operation of the facility to provide a holding facility for county prisoners in the Glades.

A report is due the Palm Beach County Commission next Tuesday on the feasibility of the county taking over the city jail, along with a report on leasing the Lake Worth and West Palm city jails. Should the county take action at that time, they will have two ways to affect the takeover.

The state also uses the city jail as a transfer point when moving state prisoners into South Florida. Agreed to update the city report when City Manager Robert Sanders told the commissioners a number of pictures are missing from the report and parts of it are already outdated.

Postponed a request by Glades Central Community School Director Leif H. Young to donate $13,657.50 to the community schools until the budget sessions begin. The commissioners told Young the city is concentrating efforts on its own summer recreational program.

Young said the funds would have been used to maintain and keep open several mini parks and gymnasiums at Glades Central and Lake Shore Middle School.

Agreed to allow city zc companies to double park their trucks on city streets in order to make deliveries. The commissioners were told by several gas dealers that traffic tickets were a common thing because in parts of town there are no parking spaces available and the trucks have only 125 to 150 foot hoses.

Road patrol tax proposed for county

A special sheriff's road patrol tax, for homeowners of the counties unincorporated area only, may become a hot subject in this year's budget sessions.

County Commissioners and members of the Municipal Service Taxing Unit Advisory Committee have been informed a Broward County Circuit Court order rules that a sheriff road patrol service does "provide substantial benefit to the residents of the incorporated (municipal) area and thus the road patrol should be taxed uniformly throughout the county."

While the Broward ruling may not affect Palm Beach County, there is concern about possible law suits. In Broward, while officials of cities and the county agreed to road patrol taxation only in unincorporated areas, individual county residents intervened in a lawsuit. The judge ruled in their favor.

Palm Beach County Attorney William Rutter, by memo, advised commissioners:

"It would appear that the sheriff's road patrol might now become an item to be considered for inclusion or exclusion, rather than automatically included in a Municipal Service Taxing Unit (MSTU) as has been done in the past."

Homeowners in the unincorporated areas of Palm Beach County have been paying the entire road patrol budget for three years, beginning in fiscal 1974-75. The cost, solely to the unincorporated sections is 1,935 miles or approximately $1.53 for each $1,000 in non-exempt property assessment.

Rutter suggested that Sheriff Richard Willie be requested by commissioners to review the Broward court judgment and confer with the Broward County sheriff to determine similarities of road patrol operation. Sheriff Willie is scheduled to make a report to the MSTU committee at the 9:30 a.m. June 8 meeting.

Consisting of 10 members, including five each from municipalities and the unincorporated areas, the committee has been reviewing allegations of "dual taxation" to residents of the municipalities. The committee was charged by county commissioners to:

—Serve as citizens input for consideration of services to be provided within any MSTU district.

—Advise commissioners on recommendations of best possible use of an tax revenue gathered in the MSTU (unincorporated areas).

—Review staff recommendations before any presentation to the commission.

—Recommend improvements or adjustments to staff recommendations.

—Perform any specific task concerning use of MSTU tax monies upon request and direction of the commission.

Last week, the advisory committee dwelled mostly on the highway network in the county. Engineer Herb Kahler was asked for a further breakdown, if possible, on costs and use by municipal and unincorporated residents of county roads.

Clifford Thompson is cited

BELLE GLADE—A Gove Elementary School student received a special certificate of appreciation this week with congratulations on heading up the school's student energy conservation program.

In a letter to Clifford Thompson, student chairman of the school's energy conservation program, Clifford E. Ripley, assistant superintendent of administrative services for the county, said he read with "much interest" the recommendations for conserving energy at the school.

Ripley suggested Clifford might be interested in sharing his thoughts on the program to other elementary schools in the county and offered to send him more materials on the subject.

William Tedesco, faculty chairman of the program, said Clifford was the one who came up with most of a list of ten ways to conserve energy at the school.

The seminar, a repeat of the one held in May 1976, is expected to be helpful to persons who have to conduct borer surveys or who have to instruct others on how to perform surveys.

Gerald Kidder, assistant professor and extension sugarcane specialist at the center, said the survey will be good training for new personnel and a refresher course for those who have already had experience with the borer.

Kidder said all persons interested are invited to attend the seminar and transportation for the field visit will be provided.

Sugarcane seminar on borers scheduled

BELLE GLADE—A special seminar on Sugarcane Borers will be held at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the Conference Room of the Agricultural Research and Education Center in Belle Glade and a field of commercial cane showing borer damage.

Dr. T.E. Summers will deal with identification of sugarcane borer

Wilma Roland, said she first knew Shorty P was on the airwaves when she herself became paralyzed last year and took to her own citizens band to while away the long hours when she was alone in her home.

"I'd been a friend of the family for some time," she said this week. "And I started listening to the March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon was kicked off between Belle Glade and Pahokee, Shorty P was monitoring the airways to pass Shorty P and I realized who he was so I started to give him a shout now and then."

In the meantime, Shorty P was getting to be well known in the CB circles as the man to reach to let him know about what's happening when a person had a flat on SR 80 or was late but coming home.

Since he was almost always listening in, Shorty P was the one to take a message and relay it to a landline and he began to receive a reputation for that kind of service to other CB'ers.

When March rolled around and messages along and warn incoming traffic from other areas about the kids on the road.

And it was about that time when Shorty P began "eyeballing" a lot of the people he'd been acquainted with in the months before only as a faceless voice.

"A lot of people have talked to Shorty P," said Trailerman, also known as Charles Barnett, "and have no idea anything was wrong with him."

But as more of the CB'ers in the area knew who Shorty P was, they began looking in on him during the day, when he was at his sister's home by himself.

And sometime in the last few months, Trailerman and Georgie Girl and the other CB'ers began taking up a collection with the idea in mind of buying a wheelchair for Shorty P.

That idea was short-circuited, however, when Bo Stein, executive director of the Palm Beach County March of Dimes, was told about Shorty P's plight and went to work to get the wheelchair donated by the county March of Dimes organization.

It was in that wheelchair which Shorty P took the sun for five hours Sunday, the first time he'd been able to get outside since last July 5.

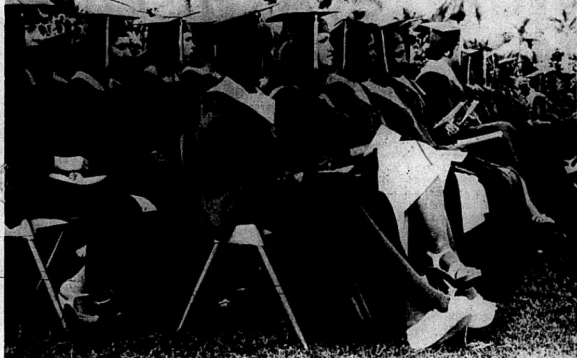

He said he didn't have the slightest idea anyone was thinking about giving him the wheelchair until Saturday afternoon when a group of his friends came by to deliver it. And that was just the beginning.

When the CB'ers found the March of Dimes was buying the wheelchair, they looked around to find a hospital bed to allow Shorty P to shift his position.

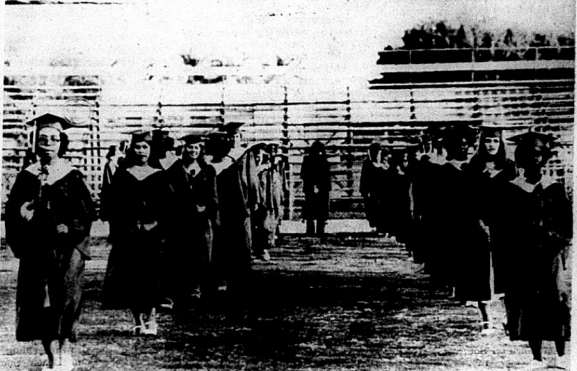

With the operation and the wheelchair, Shorty P said he also believes he can help a little more around the house where he's staying with his sister, Ruby Armstrong, and her husband.

"As soon as I can get up by myself," he said, "I'm going to try to get into the business of repairing fishing reels. I guess I started fixing fishing reels when they started coming out. I just tore into one of my own, an Ocean Star 36."

"They don't even make those anymore," he said, "And I've still got that one and it's as good as new."

Pahokee Royals' Shopping center is closer to reality

PAHOKEE-A standing-room-only crowd of Pahokee residents heard a lengthy discussion Tuesday night on the pros and cons of building a shopping center on Larrimore Road, but, in the end, the City Council voted, in the first public hearing, to rezone the parcel of land in question to commercial property so that Charles Royal's proposed shopping center can be built there.

Mrs. Doris Sasser led the group in favor of the rezoning, acting as spokesperson for those 629 people who signed the petitions for it.

During the April City Planning and Zoning Board, petitions were presented both for and against the rezoning with opposition coming mostly from Ridgcrest Gardens residents and also residents of Verville, near the location in question.

Mrs. Sasser said that the Verville residents who signed the petitions against rezoning "were sadly misled" into "thinking they would have a drag race strip running through their neighborhood," that strip being First Street. There are no plans for making First Street a thoroughfare.

The planning and zoning board, at their April meeting voted to recommend to the Council that the zoning be changed in tract 14 from agricultural to commercial and in the 163.18 feet of tract 15, from residential to commercial. The land is located adjacent to the football field and encompasses a total of nine acres, opening up 4 1/4 acres with an option on an additional 4 1/4 acres.

total of 925 families have been added to Pahokee since that time, and "we have fewer merchants to serve them, so how can additional merchants break any of us here?" she asked.

She cited several dollar figures in concluding that the city has adequate capacity in water, sewage and electricity to serve the shopping center, with no additional money necessary. She also stated that a minimum of 75 new jobs would be created if the shopping center were to become a reality.

Her request for a show of hands of those favoring the rezoning proposal indicated that the majority of the residents who attended the meeting were in favor of rezoning.

Mrs. Ada Bush was the first to speak up against the rezoning, presenting the Council with a petition bearing almost 500 signatures. She is a resident of Ridgcrest Gardens.

Her recommendation to the Council was that they table the zoning changes "prior to downtown development." She expressed concern that such a zoning change would set a precedent in allowing other business concerns to get residential property that is zoned residential changed to commercial.

"Those of us who signed this petition have a dream; it's probably a dream even Doris (Sasser) has dreamed at times," she said. The dream is that the deteriorating downtown business district of Pahokee will be rejuvenated. "Maybe it's just a dream but somewhere a dream has to get started," she said, assuring the crowd and the Council that the dream will not be forgotten, that there are people who will "come together and make the dream a realization."

Mrs. Bush said there would be no bitterness if the town gets a shopping center on Larrimore Road, but her strict opposition is in changing property zoned from residential to commercial.

residential to commercial.

Another woman in the audience said that she had been in Pahokee since 1935 and "I've watched it die. If anything was going to be done (in the downtown area), it would have been done a long time ago," she stated. She said she lives close to Foodway grocery store and will "live as close to the shopping center as anybody, I think."

Councilman Robert Welty commended the planning and zoning board in their April decision. They were under tremendous pressure of several groups, he said, "but I feel they came up with the right answer."

Welty's statement, as well as others made in favor of the proposal, was received with a round of applause.

John Hudley echoed Mrs. Bush in the concern of a precedent-setting move if residential property is changed to commercial, but also objected to locating the shopping center "in those people's front yards. It's an infringement of our civil liberties, our civil rights," he stated.

Councilman William McKinstry also said he was against this particular zoning change, "when you've got other property not zoned residential now."

Mrs. Sasser then noted that the city's comprehensive plan which will be submitted to the Council for approval at the June 28 meeting, also the date of the next public hearing on this zoning change, may alter the present zoning anyway.

Bob Hess, Real Estate Manager for Winn Dixie, grocery stores, prime investor in the center, explained that Winn Dixie looks for the best site in an area that they can serve and that can serve them.

"We're not looking just for today," he said, since Winn Dixie would have a 40 year lease on the property, 20 years with five five-year options.

FRAMED BY FLAGS, Glades Central Salutatorian Paula Lockett provided the welcoming speech to the 1977 graduating class and visitors during graduation ceremonies at the football stadium Friday night.

Glades Central graduates 209

BELLE GLADE-The Glades Central Class of '77, also known as the 77 Express, wound up its time at Glades Central right on time last Friday when the 209 seniors received diplomas during an early evening commencement exercise.

Dr. Effie Grear, principal at the school, was not able to see her charges through because she was in West Virginia watching her own daughter graduate but Assistant Principal Norman Sherin took her place.

Clifford Ripley, assistant supervisor of education in charge of administration for Palm Beach County, presented the diplomas to the graduating seniors in one of the last acts of the ceremony, just before the graduates joined hands and sang the Alma Mater.

Welcoming the class and the audience was Salutatorian Paula Lockett. Jill Burnett, class historian, also gave a speech.

Tom Lewis discusses legislative session

Hello again from the Capital City...

I thought after my second newsletter only one more would follow which would consist of a session wrap-up. As most of you know by now, the 1977 Legislature has been called the Special Session to work on the budget, tax relief measures and compensatory education. However, there is a good chance the Governor will expand his call to work on bills dealing with pari-mutuels and maybe even the Insurance Bill.

I would like to give you a rundown on general and major legislation that passed, also a report on my legislation, but for the time being the money side of the Legislature will come at a later date. There were 3,791 total bills introduced and 670 bills passed both Houses during the 1977 session.

KEY ISSUES BROUGHT BE-

FLORIDA LEGISLATURE (as determined by the Capital Press Corps)

Appropriations - A $5.84 billion budget which required $383 million in new taxes in the House and a $5.47 billion budget in the Senate which would require $38.7 million in new taxes. Bill did not pass and will be handled in the Special Session.

One-Cent Sales Tax - Raising the sales tax from 4 to 5 cents on the dollar in the House, the gasoline tax being raised a penny to try to balance the budget. The state would keep three-fourths of each cent, the counties one-fourth. This bill did not pass either and will be taken up in the Special Session.

Automobile Insurance - A conference committee report was adopted in both houses, dealing with no-fault automobile insurance. Passed.

Anti-Rent Control - A bill abolishing rent control ordinances, the bill had the effect of being the toughest possible law banning rent controls. Passed.

Laetrile - Legalizing the prescription and administration of Laetrile. Passed.

Financial Disclosure - A conference committee report was adopted on this bill also. The bill requires full financial disclosure for public officials. Passed.

Race-Track Relief - A thoroughbred race track relief package giving that industry an indirect $10.6 million subsidy for two years. Passed.

RICO - Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act, the biggest anti-organized crime bill to pass the Legislature. Passed.

Farm Workers - This bill abolishes the state's crew chief registration law, which was passed to protect migrant farm workers from abuse.

Sunshine Law Amendment - An amendment to the Sunshine Law allowing public agencies to meet secretly with their attorneys. Passed but could be vetoed by the Governor.

Interest Rate Parity - This bill allows state banks to charge up to 30 per cent interest on small loans under $500 and thus compete with small loan finance companies. Passed.

Homosexual Adoption - Forbids any known homosexual adult from adopting a child. Passed.

Crime - The Florida Crime Compensation Act will allow victims to receive money for out of pocket expenses not covered by insurance. Each victim could receive up to $10,000 from a $4 million fund. Lawbreakers will pay the bill. All persons convicted of any state criminal charge will pay a $10, surcharge plus a $4 surcharge on all fines. Judges can also impose up to $10,000 in fines based on the offense committed. Organized crime was also attacked this year. A law passed that will hit organized crime where it hurts the most - in the pocket book. The law makes it unlawful to use money made in illegal profits to acquire legal businesses; this is very similar to a federal law.

Taxes - The evasive resort tax bolted out of nowhere to win legislative approval and is now on the Governor's desk. By referendum individual counties may determine whether or not to impose it in their area, the tax is designed to raise tourist development dollars through a 1 or 2 per cent tax on rental accommodations. Also, in the line of taxes, homeowners especially the elderly would be able to defer tax payments until after death if the annual tax bill amounts to more than 5% of income. The tax would become a lien on the property payable after the homeowner dies. In addition, persons paying a municipal utility tax on cable television will get a tax break. The legislature ordered cities to junk the cable television tax.

Elections - The largest bill outside the Appropriations bill was the election reform bill. The 327 page election bill is the first overhaul of state election laws in a quarter of a century. This bill prevents politicians from building large slush funds from testimonials than pocketing the money or using it for other things.

Condominium - Condominium owners have found problem after problem with laws dealing with recreational leases. A bill which takes effect July 1, makes it easier for condo owners to break the recreation lease if they can prove the lease is unreasonable. The bill sets down nine unconscionable points, among them any lease period exceeding 21 years, an escalation clause tied to the cost of living index and a gross rent that exceeds the cost of the facilities. If over owners can show nine conditions exist, a court can declare that lease unconscionable and unenforceable.

Handicapped Persons - After years of ignoring the special needs of people in wheelchairs, beginning October 1, handicapped people will be able to buy 50 cent parking stickers that will enable them to park free. In addition, cities and counties will be required to set aside special parking spaces for those in wheelchairs.

Senior Citizens - Beginning July 1, state agencies will be required to stockpile statistics on crime against the elderly and to begin developing comprehensive plans to combat it. Senior citizens who have put their life savings into care for life facilities expect to receive room, board and medical care for the rest of their lives. Some people though have seen their money wasted and their contracts violated. This bill as passed is designed to toughen regulation of those facilities, require annual inspections and disclosure of finances and put more safeguards into the contracts of life care clients.

Pari-Mutuels - Persons betting on the wing horse, dog or jai-lai player will see it worth a little less at the payoff window however, those people who own the tracks will be better off. The bite taken out of each better's dollar to pay taxes, maintenance and awards from all pari-mutuel gambling events is being increased from 17.4 to 17.6 cents on the dollar. Of that portion, six-tenths of a cent will go to put money into racetrack profits and winner's purses. Effective July 1, this should help the near bankruptcy race track industry.

Unemployment Compensation - A new board was created to handle appeals in jobless benefits during the busy harvesting month of December. Another provision raises from $42 to $182 per employee the premium businesses have to pay when they first enter the program. Maximum benefits remained at $82 a week.

Alien Workers - Beginning October 1, an employer can be fined $500 for employing any alien not authorized by federal immigration officials.

Local Ordinances - Since the abolition of municipal courts, several counties and cities complain that state attorneys are not processing local ordinances as fast now as city prosecutors once did. Effective October 1, counties and cities will be able to pay the salary of an assistant state attorney whose only job would be the enforcement of local ordinances.

Child Pornography - The 1977 Legislature passes a bill making it a felony for anyone knowingly involve minors in pornography. The measure attempts to stop the use of children in pornographic movies, photographs or similar presentations. Any adult involving children in such activities could be guilty of a third degree misdemeanor.

Financial Disclosure - A conference committee was appointed to work out the difference in the Financial Disclosure bill. In the final hours of the 1977 session the Legislature passes a bill that requires all elected officials ranging from city councilman to the Governor to disclose the dollar value of every source of income, debt or possession worth more than $1,000. The bill not only puts into effect the disclosure provisions of the 1967 Sunshine Amendment, but extends them to cover more persons than just the state and county elected officials covered by the amendment. It does exempt such things as advisory boards.

The first disclosure report is due December 31, 1977.

Environment - One of the most significant "environmental" issues passed this year authorizes the State Department of Environmental Regulation to establish a cetegative index around natural shorelines. The index around natural shorelines. The index will enable the state to determine the location of the shoreline and thus prevent private development from trespassing into what is considered public lands between a body of water, and the nearest point of permanently dry land.

Health - As mentioned in previous newsletters, Laetrile, a drug derived from apricot pits, is a hope for those persons terminally ill. Beginning October 1, the bill allows doctors in Florida to prescribe or administer Laetrile.

Transportation - A major revision of Florida's gas tax and roads classification system cleared the Legislature. The measure will turn over millions of dollars in gas tax revenues to counties. However, in going with the Senate version of the bill, $97 million is cut for new road spending.

Retirement - State employees will be able to retire after 30 years' work. But they will have to wait until July 1978 for the law to take effect and contribute another 1 per cent of their salary to pay for it.

Mobile Homes - The Mobile Home Rent Act was established to prevent mobile home parks from gouging. Effective July 1, the measure will allow a seven member commission of tenants and landlords to freeze many of the rent; persons unable physically or financially to move the big mobile homes to new sites. Park owners have raised rents as much as 300 per cent in five years.

Medical Malpractice - This year the Legislature again addressed itself to the issue of Medical Malpractice. This year's bill amended the 1976 version with a few provisions such as internal risk management programs of hospitals and others similar facilities, removing the requirement that such facilities develop and implement a program to provide compensation to persons who have sustained compensable injuries. Other provisions relate to medical negligence provider and standards or recovery, procedures with respect to recoveries for damages in cases where the award is clearly excessive or inadequate and providing for filing of claims or practitioners. These are a few of the provisions amended into this very complex bill.

Insurance - Automobile Insurance was again a major issue this year. This year's bill amended the 1976 bill with changes in application for registration forms, proof of financial responsibility, renewal of licenses and reinstatement, fees, lowering of Personal Injury Protection benefits from $5,000 to $3,000. One provision made effective January 1, 1979, will not require a person to show evidence of insurance at the time a motor vehicle is inspected.

Farm Workers - A bill passes this year dealing with farm workers relates to employing any alien not duly authorized by the Federal Government to work in the U.S. Any person who is aware of this before employing such a person will be guilty of a misdemeanor of the 1st degree.

Sincerely,
Tom Lewis

Fishermen, GFC officials meet

Program problems aired

TALLAHASSEE—Commercial fishing on Lake Okechobee is expected to take on a new complexion as the result of a meeting between commercial fishermen and the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission on Sunday, June 5, at a site near Okechobee.

Colonel Robert Brantly, Commission executive director, reported on the meeting by saying those fishermen present clearly understand that the Commission expects full compliance with the commercial fishing rules and that enforcement of the rules will be a top priority of the Commission's law enforcement division.

Brantly acknowledged some violations of the special fishing rules applying to Lake Okechobee. He also reported that corrective steps have been taken and that he anticipated much closer observance of the rules in the future.

"This is the first time we have had the opportunity to sit down with the commercial fishermen and openly discuss the problem," Brantly stated.

"We have been disappointed that a small segment of commercial fishermen have not recognized the economic and ecological value of this program and have elected to violate the rules and place the entire program in jeopardy for personal short term gain. We refuse to allow this segment to continue, and, if it requires constant patrol and revocation of fishing permits, we will follow that course," Brantly said.

An accelerated enforcement program, the big lake recently suffered in numerous arrests for various infractions of the regulations as well as confiscation of fish trawls for fishing within the one-mile limit.

According to Brantly, the major complaints about the Lake Okechobee project have been the use of nets within the one-mile limit and dumping unwanted trash fish back into the water.

"We feel," Brantly continued, "the one-mile limit problem can be corrected through cooperative effort and strict enforcement. The problem of disposal of trash fish will be solved if we can find additional markets for this method fish resource."

"We are presently exploring several possibilities that may lead to the establishment of a rough fish processing plant capable of handling the volume of shad and other trash fish," Brantly reported.

"The real key to the continuation and success of the Lake Okechobee Fishery Utilization Program is cooperation of all fishermen. We are going to eliminate problems between sport and commercial fishermen if at all possible and hopefully document the benefits of the fish management program to the satisfaction of all," he concluded.

Census to study birth expectations

Thomas W. McWhirter, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Atlanta, announced today that information on birth expectations of American women will be collected during the week of June 20-24 from a sample of households in this area. The questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Households in this area are part of the sample of 70,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

Results of this monthly survey provide a continuing measure of economic conditions in the Nation. The April survey indicated that of the 96.7 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 90.0 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.0 percent compared to 7.3 percent in March, and substantially below the recession peak of 9.0 percent reached in May 1975.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law, and results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area include: Mrs. Doris Rosenberg, Mrs. Betty Garriga, and Mrs. Selma Leavitt.

HE FLIES THROUGH THE AIR with the greatest of ease, the daring young man on the flying skateboard. It may not rhyme, but John Stedham shows off the style he expects to exhibit June 25 when he gives a demonstration at the skateboard contest on the church grounds of the Apostolic Church of Jesus Christ. The demonstration will precede the contest and both will be part of a summer recreation program being sponsored by the church which will begin Tuesday.

OUTMODED EQUIPMENT

This young man certainly won't get much real cleaning done with this broom. A modern street cleaning machine would do the job so much better. His straw broom makes us think of how we try to get along without God, without spiritual values, without church. Our life would be so much better if we would exchange this life for one that knows God and practices His precepts. Without church and God we have little or no spiritual equipment. Hearing God's word preached, being with his people, working in His church, helping others through the church all give us the spiritual equipment we need for meeting life. We invite you to attend this week and make a habit of coming to God's house.

Coleman Adv. Ser.

THE CHURCH IN THE CHURCH

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should spend and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Three GCI employees participate in correctional training program

BELLE GLADE—The Department of Offender Rehabilitation announced this week that Glades Correctional Institution employees, William Asbury, Michael Cromes and Edward Dorsett, recently participated in the Correctional Training Institute at Raiford, Florida.

This is the 12th group to enroll in the minimum standards curriculum, which is required by law. The Training Institute program is taught in conjunction with Lake City Community College, and the graduates earn nine semester credits for successfully completing the full time, 180 hour course. The program includes instruction in the Criminal Justice System

Legal Aspects of Corrections, Operational Procedures, Principles of Supervision, Human Relations and Technical Training Skills which include Firearms, First Aid and Fire Fighting Techniques.

The Correctional Training Institute was certified by the Florida Correctional Standards Council (CSC) in May, 1976, as a training center for correctional personnel. The Council was empowered by the Legislature in 1974 to establish minimum standards for the certification of correctional officers and training centers. The curriculum of training is designed to intensify the exposure of the officer and to develop him professionally. It is anticipated that the training program will help materialize the promise of a modern correctional system.

The participants will continue their training with an additional 100 hours taught by regional instructors, on an in-service basis at the various correctional facilities located throughout Florida.

Oh No!

A plebe at Annapolis sent a letter to Mom describing his activities. "One of the important things I have to learn around here is how to use my sextant." "Is that what they teach at the Naval Academy?" Mom exclaimed.

FOR PROGRESS AND PEOPLE is the legend painted on the door of a new $11,000 trash truck being tried out by South Bay Public Works Director Lomax Harrelle in front of the city's spanking new garage. Harrelle said the 27 cubic foot truck will ensure city residents get their money's worth for their monthly trash pickup fee. He said the vehicle will mean the city will be able to more than double the number of pickups during the week.

Pahokee student wins for essay

PAHOKEE—Miss Beverly Mallory, a senior of Pahokee Jr.-Sr. High School, won $25 for her essay on Babe Didrikson Zaharis, in the first annual "Discovering American Women" essay contest.

The contest was sponsored by the South Palm Beach and West Palm Beach Chapters of the National Organization for Women

(NOW).

Kazen Duke, a ninth grader at Jupiter High School, won first prize of $50 for an essay about her grandmother's life.

In selecting the contest winners, one of the judges, Dr. Ann Peyton, of the Florida Atlantic University English Department had this to say, "It was a difficult choice but 'The Transitional Woman' seems most creative and is conscious of passing of time and woman's role. In announcing the awards, a spokesperson for both NOW chapters expressed congratulations to the winners and the organizations' sense of pride to acknowledge the achievements and talents of young women students.
